

DOGS KILLED THE PANTHERS

Monarchs of the Jungle No Match for Flock of Specially Trained Domestic Animals.

An unusual sight was witnessed in Bbaynagar in the course of some native sports, says the London Telegraph. Specially trained dogs of his highness the Thakur Sahib were let loose on two full grown panthers.

About 8,000 people assembled on the maidan to see the event. The arrival of his highness with the Maharani Sahiba was the signal to commence the fight. When the cages were opened the panthers slowly crept out, but finding themselves hemmed in by such a large mass of people they slunk back again and lay apparently watching for a chance to pounce upon the nearest bystanders.

The dogs, however, on being let loose, at once attacked the panthers in a body, speedily overwhelming and killing them. It is said that the dogs were previously dosed with some sort of snuff that deadened their scent.

TOO SMALL A DOG.

A New Jersey man was excitedly relating to a friend the harrowing details of a burglary in his house the night before.

"A most daring robbery," exclaimed the outraged man. "It was still early; my wife and I had retired; and Susie and her young man were in the parlor. Our dog was in the dining room. Despite all that that crook had the nerve to enter the dining room and rifle it of every bit of silver we had. Not satisfied, he even stole the clock off the mantelpiece. What do you think of that?"

"Well," said the friend, "I don't see what else you could expect. Fido is only a watch dog, you know."

SELF-INTEREST.

A real estate firm had lots for sale in a new suburban addition. The young, enthusiastic member was writing the advertisement, eloquence flowing from his pen. He urged intending purchasers to seize the passing moment.

"Napoleon not only met the opportunity, he created it."

The senior partner read this line in the advertisement slowly and carefully.

"This 'allow Napoleon,' he observed, quizzically, 'what's the use of advertising him with our money?'" —Boston Post.

A SAVING MISSION.

A certain minister was deeply impressed by an address on the evils of smoking given at a recent synod. He rose from his seat, went over to a fellow minister, and said:

"Brother, this morning I received a present of 100 good cigars. I have smoked one of them, but now I'm going home and burn the remainder in the fire."

The other minister arose, and said it was his intention to accompany his reverend brother.

"I mean to rescue the ninety and nine," he added.

NOT FOR HER.

"And so you refuse me?" "Yes, Willie! I never could marry a man who goes under a hat like that!"

NOT HIS FAULT.

Suburbanite—You are half an late this morning.

Letter Carrier—Yes, ma'am; the sections of stovepipe I have to wear inside my trousers legs on account of the dogs you keep along this street hamper my movements, ma'am.

GENTLE EGOISM.

"People did not regard Shakespeare as a very great poet in his day."

"No," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "But if I could have had an opportunity to read his lines to them I am sure I could have convinced them."

Successful Air Flight

Count Zeppelin, of Germany, traveled over 900 miles in thirty-nine consecutive hours Saturday and Sunday in an air ship of his own construction but at length came to grief by striking a tree when attempting to make a landing to replenish his supply of fuel. He was on his return to the place of starting when the accident occurred. This is the record flight of a dirigible balloon.

Any lady reader of this paper will receive, on request, a clever "No-Drip" Coffee Strainer Coupon privilege, from Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. It is silver-plated, very pretty and positively prevents all dripping of tea or coffee. The Doctor sends it, with his new free book on "Health Coffee" simply to introduce this clever substitute for real coffee. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is gaining its great popularity because of first, its exquisite taste and flavor; second, its absolute healthfulness; third, its economy—1½ lb. 25c; fourth, its convenience. "Made in a minute" says Dr. Shoop. Try it at your grocer's for a pleasant surprise. Shafter Bros.

Working the Street

A drunken disturbance in the east part of town Monday caused the arrest of three strangers. One giving his name as John Van Winkle was arrested by City Marshal Jackson and was given a fine of $1.00 and five days labor on the street. C. D. Daly and H. C. Tate were charged with disturbing the peace. Daly was given a $5.00 fine and five days and Tate $10.00 and ten days, by Police Judge Jewett before whom they were arraigned. The three were quarreling, fighting and using indecent and offensive language. Tate may be required to answer to a more serious charge. The complaint was filed by Mesdames Garland and Kukulinski.

Music Club.

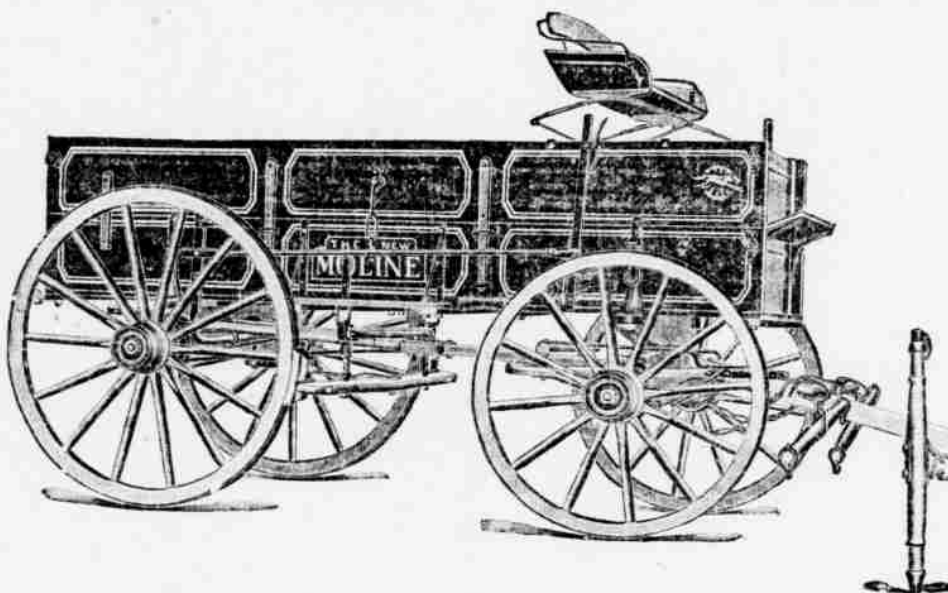

The Music Club held their last meeting for the season with Mrs. W. T. Kines Monday afternoon.

There was a good attendance and a splendid program was given. The course of study on the lives of composers was completed. The club will disband for the summer.

"When the young men of a town see a loafer who somehow manages to get along on no income, they are inclined to believe that the world owes them a living also and work becomes objectionable to them, when it should be a pleasure. We have too much patience with loafers. We should learn from the bee which, when it can secure conclusive evidence against the drone, drives him out. A loafer is a vagrant. He ought to be treated as such unless he can be compelled to go to work. In Leavenworth, for instance, there are loafers, and this in spite of the fact that there is an abundance of employment here. If under these circumstances these loafers refuse to work, they should be compelled to get out of town, or stay at home, where they could not exert a bad influence upon others by their idleness."—Leavenworth Times.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Raymann and baby daughter returned to their home in East St. Louis, Tuesday, after a pleasant visit with the family of John McDonald. They were on the return trip from Lawton, Okla., where Mr. Raymann owns property, and took this opportunity of visiting their relatives.

The Courage of Opinions.

The ways in which people form their opinions are most remarkable. Every man, when he begins his reasonable life, finds certain general opinions current in the world. He is shaped by these opinions in one way or another, either directly or by reaction. If he is soft and plastic, like the majority of people, he takes the opinions that are about him for his own. If he is self-assertive and defiant, he takes the opposite of these opinions and gives to them his vehement adherence. We know the two kinds well, and as we ordinarily see them, the fault which is at the root of both is intellectual cowardice. One man clings servilely to the old ready-made opinions which he finds, because he is afraid of being called rash and radical; another rejects the traditions of his people from fear of being thought, fearful and timid and a slave.—Phillips Brooks.

WOMAN'S DREAM OF HOME.

Evelyn Sharp, writing in the Manchester Guardian, says that every woman has a dream of home, not a castle in the air, but a house that she has planned all her life, in which she would like to live. The dream home contains the right sort of people, and they have the courage to throw away everything ugly, even to the mistaken wedding present, and harbor only beautiful things. But the dream home is always only a dream home to most women, and fortunate, indeed, is that one who realizes her ideal.

WHY HE THOUGHT SO.

"Auntie," inquired the little nephew, as the unbecomingly spindly stood gazing in the long mirror, "what are you thinking of?" "I was thinking how my figure looks in the glass, Willie."

"I thought that was it," quickly exclaimed the youth.

"What made you think so?" asked the aunt, her curiosity getting the better of her.

"Because you made such a wry face."—The Bohemian.

WEALTH'S AFTERMATH.

"After a man has made millions you'd think his wife and daughters would let him rest."

Strawberry Shipments.

A nice rain fell Saturday night and it cleared to cool with a west wind which makes the best possible condition for fruit, and the strawberries continue to show excellent quality. The carrying quality of the goods was never better and the trade is not afraid to take hold. The price given for the berries Sunday was $2.25 for fancy and even money for B's. There were sixteen cars shipped from Missouri and none from Arkansas. Monett shipped two cars. Nine of the cars were shipped by the Ozark Association.

Monday was a strenuous day for the berry men. They were obliged to sell at $2.00. The output was even larger than was expected. The total movement amounted to sixty-two cars from Missouri and Arkansas, of which Missouri shipped fifty-seven and Arkansas five. The Ozark Association handled forty cars. Peirce City furnished three cars; Monett, seven; Neosho, ten, and Sarcxie, eleven.

The markets were generally feeling the effects of the heavy receipts Tuesday, in fact some of the buyers could not pay the price and stepped out, and all showed a downward tendency. Illinois is offering and shipping berries for less than we were asking, so in order to move the fruit it was necessary to consign some of the days output. Wednesday's output will show a marked increase over Tuesday and a further decline is looked for. Weather conditions are perfect.

The total movement from Missouri and Arkansas was 44 cars, Missouri shipping 42. Monett shipped four cars.
